Time Change

A study, published in 2014 in the journal Open Heart, found a 24 percent increase in heart attacks on the Monday after losing an hour of sleep in the spring. Many people don't get enough sleep in general, and losing an hour due to the spring time change compounds the problem, said Dr. Nilay Mehta, a cardiologist at Memorial Hermann.

Preparing for the Start of Daylight Saving Time

- Gradually Adjust Your Schedule
- Sleep Well Beforehand
- Consider Relaxation Techniques
- Set Your Clocks Before Bed
- Prioritize Daylight Exposure
- Take Precautions against Case of Sleep Disruption
- Eat a Healthy Diet
- Upgrade Your Sleep Habits
- Take a Short Nap if Necessary

Upgrade Your Sleep Hygiene

- Maintain a fixed sleep schedule on both weekdays and weekends
- Keeping a stable routine to get ready for bed each night
- Limiting or avoiding caffeine and alcohol, especially in the afternoon and evening
- Go "device free" for at least 30 minutes before bed
- Block out unwanted noise and light from your bedroom
- Use accessories like a sleep mask and ear plugs
- Choose a supportive mattress and comfortable bedding

Daylight Saving Time: 4 Tips to Help Your Body Adjust

Start preparing a few days early.

Stick to your schedule.

Don't take long naps.

Avoid coffee and alcohol.

<https://health.clevelandclinic.org/daylight-savings-time-change-4-tips-to-help-your-body-adjust/>

Good habits for good sleep

1. Before bed, slow your body down. Raising your body's core temperature can make it harder to sleep, so avoid heavy workouts within a few hours of bedtime.

2. Put your phone, computer or tablet away. Turn off the television and pick up a non-suspenseful book.

Today In History

March 10th

1302: Pope Boniface VIII sentences Italian poet and politician Dante Alighieri, author of the Divine Comedy, to be burned to death for political reasons.
1528: Balthasar Hubmaier, called by his enemies “head and most important of the Anabaptists,” is burned at the stake in Vienna after being deemed a heretic by a Roman Catholic court. In addition to his writings against Lutherans and Zwinglians,
1681: Charles II makes English Quaker William Penn sole proprietor of the colonial American territory known today as the state of Pennsylvania.
1748: John Newton, the captain of a slave ship, converts to Christianity during a huge storm at sea.
1880: Commissioner George S. Railton and seven women arrive in New York City to establish the Salvation Army in the United States.
1898: George Mueller, English philanthropist and evangelist, dies. 1913: Harriet Tubman, known as “Grandma Moses” for her work rescuing slaves and guiding them to the north on what was dubbed “the Underground Railroad,” dies.
1963: Some 25,000 people lined the 4-mile route to Shenandoah Memorial Park where singer Patsy Cline was buried at Winchester, Virginia.
1969: James Earl Ray pleaded guilty in Memphis, Tennessee, to the assassination of the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr.
1980: Willard Scott debuted as the new weatherman on NBC-TV’s “Today Show.” He also played Mr. Poole occasionally on The Hogan Family.

After only two weeks in release, a little Christian film called Jesus Revolution has grossed $30.5 million, which is a better domestic take than five of this year's Best Picture nominees. In fact, it's a better domestic haul than four of those Best Picture nominees combined. What makes this accomplishment even more satisfying is that Jesus Revolution has accomplished this after just two weeks in theaters. Every one of the Best Picture nominees listed below has already completed or is at the end of its theatrical run.

Weighed Down by a Guilty Conscience? There Is Hope. In Christ, and in Him alone, you can find forgiveness that is full, final, and free. There is a way to have your sins forgiven. That way is the Lord Jesus Christ, the true and better sacrifice.

<https://t.co/LBEgABYJSF>

I've heard people say, "We don't need more head knowledge in the church today; we need heart knowledge." But the problem is not that we know too much! The head and the heart should not be pitted against each other. We need both. The heart that deeply knows AND loves God will bear the fruit of the Spirit, and overflow with joyful service to others. "Oh, taste and see that the LORD is good! Blessed [how happy!] is the man who takes refuge in him!" (Psalm 34:8, ESV).

Mar 11

Our seasons of suffering are not for nothing. They will grow us... shape us... soften us. They will allow us to experience God's comfort and compassion. And we will find life-giving purpose and meaning when we allow God to take our painful experiences and comfort others. <https://t.co/DEF2I9KS2m>

Our desire should be to please our heavenly Father, not grieve Him. So genuine repentance leads us to forsake the sin and practice obedience. When we humble ourselves and truly repent, the Holy Spirit pours His power and strength into our life. Then we are enabled to turn from that sin in order to walk in obedience to our Lord.
<https://t.co/h9IhLCDwZw>

Mar 12

It's common to hear Christians say, "You don't have to be perfect—God loves you just the way you are." And that statement is true, except it's not the whole picture. His plan for all believers is to make us increasingly like Himself. It's a perfection that transcends our understanding of the term—a perfection found not in how we perform but in our willingness to surrender our life to Him. In Matthew 5:48 (NIV), Jesus says, "Be perfect, therefore, as your heavenly Father is perfect."
<https://t.co/iSOomKdtUb>

God knew us before we knew Him. And He chose us to become like His Son. This is our hope. Now, the devil doesn't want this to happen. In fact, he wants us to abandon hope. But Jesus wants us to abandon hopelessness.

Your life is a gift from God, and it is worth living. And you are loved more than you realize. The devil will whisper in your ear and say, "Your life is not worth living, everyone would be better off without you." Those are lies. Your life is a gift from God, and it is worth living. You are loved more than you realize.

Mar 13

If coveting is a disordering of our desires, then we must actively cultivate right desires. Through Bible reading and prayer, through worship and fellowship, we can increase our appetite for godly things. "There is nothing on earth as great as knowing God. There is no earthly blessing that can endure to eternity. Therefore, I shall be satisfied in Him, and Him alone."
<https://t.co/B1tjkUYcBX>

In order for us to walk in the truth, we must crucify our pride and be more concerned with what God thinks of us than with what someone else thinks of us. We must put away malice and pursue love for others, committing to never speaking slanderously or spreading gossip. And we must fight an ungodly fear of man, replacing it with the fear of God, who came in flesh and declared Himself to be "the way, and the truth, and the life" (John 14:6).

Quote of the Day

Mar 10

Lysa TerKeurst: Asking why isn't unspiritual. But if asking why pushes us farther from God rather than drawing us closer to Him, it may be the wrong question.

Mar 11

Alistair Begg: The world is filled with things—both good and bad—that fight for your attention, your affections, and your allegiance. But only God is worthy of our worship.

Mar 12

John of the Cross: Whenever anything disagreeable or displeasing happens to you remember Christ crucified and be silent.

Mar 13

Charles E. Fuller: To know the Word of God, to live the Word of God, to preach the Word, to teach the Word, is the sum of all wisdom, the heart of all Christian service.

41 More Texas Churches Leave United Methodist Church amid Schism over Homosexuality

Another 41 congregations in Texas have officially left The United Methodist Church in response to the mainline Protestant denomination's ongoing debate over its stance on homosexuality. The UMC North Texas Annual Conference held a special called session on Saturday in which clergy and lay members voted to approve the disaffiliation votes of 41 congregations that formerly belonged to the regional body. According to a statement emailed to The Christian Post by a conference spokesperson, the regional body "releases these churches with its full blessing," adding that no churches seeking to leave the UMC were denied dismissal.

Man Arrested for Throwing Smoke Bombs at New Jersey Church's Anti-Racism Event

A man was arrested for allegedly throwing smoke bombs into a crowd and attempting to pepper spray church attendees during an anti-racism event. Trinity Episcopal Parish of Asbury Park hosted an anti-racism concert in January that was disrupted when an individual attacked attendees and vandalized the church's property. Nicholas G. Mucci, a 28-year-old resident of Toms River, was arrested Saturday and charged with aggravated assault, arson, causing or risking widespread injury or damage, possession of a weapon for unlawful purposes, terroristic threats and possession of a destructive device.

Activist Shane Claiborne Challenges Christians to Expand View of What Constitutes 'Pro-Life' Issues

Shane Claiborne thinks it's time for a "fresh conversation" about the value of life. In an interview with The Christian Post, the activist and author lamented what he sees as a glaring issue in many Christian circles: Concern for life seems to often begin and end with the issue of abortion. But he wants Christians to expand their view of what constitutes a "pro-life" issue, namely, gun violence, poverty, the death penalty, Christian anti-Semitism and more — all topics he addresses in his new book, Rethinking Life: Embracing the Sacredness of Every Person.

Christian Charity Sues Washington State for Right to Hire Only People Who Follow Biblical Beliefs

A Christian homeless shelter filed a federal lawsuit against Washington state officials alleging that its First Amendment rights to hire "like minded" individuals who share their biblical mission about only hiring those who practice sexual purity in marriage has been violated. From serving meals to providing shelter to those in need and medical and recovery resources, Yakima Union Gospel Mission aims to serve anyone with its Christian-based services. However, the organization only hires people who share and live out its religious beliefs. Specifically, the organization hires only those who support its biblical mission of "spreading the gospel of Jesus Christ through its homeless shelter, addiction-recovery programs, outreach efforts, meal services, and health clinics for the Yakima community." Represented by the Alliance Defending Freedom, the YUGM filed a civil rights lawsuit last Thursday against Washington Attorney General Robert Ferguson, Washington State Human Rights Commission Executive Director Andreta Armstrong and two commissioners of the Human Rights Commission.

Federal Court Recognizes Pro-Life Pregnancy Care Network's Right Not to Hire Abortion Supporters

A federal court determined that a network of New York-based pregnancy centers can proceed with challenging a law that the organization said forces pro-life or religious groups to hire employees who have had abortions or hold views contrary to their mission. The 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New York City reversed a lower court's decision to dismiss a January 2020 civil suit brought by the Evergreen Association. Evergreen operates a network of pregnancy centers called the Expectant Mother Care (EMC Frontline). Circuit Judge Steven Menashi stated in the ruling that the group's beliefs about the "morality of abortion are its defining values" and that "forcing it to accept as members those who engage in or approve of that conduct would cause the group as it currently identifies itself to cease to exist."

Supreme Court Declines to Hear Arguments in Atheists Lawsuit against City over Hosting Prayer Vigil

The United States Supreme Court has declined to hear an appeal in a case regarding a group of atheists suing a Florida city for allowing the police department to hold a prayer vigil with faith leaders after a mass shooting. In an orders list released Tuesday morning, the high court denied a petition to hear arguments in the case of City of Ocala, Florida v. Art Rojas, which centers on a lawsuit against officials for holding a prayer vigil in Ocala in 2014. Justice Neil Gorsuch issued a statement of support for the denial of the petition that was included in the orders list, in which he argued that there was "no need for the Court's intervention at this juncture." Gorsuch referenced the Supreme Court decision in Kennedy v. Bremerton School District, in which the high court ruled 6-3 that a public school district was wrong to punish a football coach for his practice of praying on the field after the end of games.

YWAM Founder Loren Cunningham Is Diagnosed with Stage 4 Cancer

Youth with a Mission (YWAM) co-founder and YWAM's University of the Nations international chancellor Loren Cunningham announced that he was diagnosed with Stage 4 cancer. Cunningham's wife, Darlene, broke the news of her husband's diagnosis on YWAM's official Facebook page last Friday. "Thank you so much for your prayers for Loren and his health. As you know, the doctors did a biopsy on some very slow-growing nodules in his lungs earlier this month, when they got large enough to biopsy. They turned out to be cancerous, which led us back to Honolulu for a full body scan on February 22nd," Darlene wrote. "The results from that scan have just come in, revealing that there is extensive cancer in Loren's lungs, bones, and lymph system (stage 4 cancer)," she added. Darlene did, however, share one piece of good news about Loren's condition, writing, "one miracle is, the cancer cells have not spread to his brain. Another is that Loren is able to be quite active at this time!" Darlene wrote.

Arkansas Passes Universal School Choice Program, Bans Teaching of Sexuality before 5th Grade

Arkansas Gov. Sarah Huckabee Sanders signed a sweeping education bill into law Wednesday, becoming the fifth state to enact a universal school choice program. The law also bans certain topics from being taught in public classrooms. The legislation, Senate Bill 294, also known as Arkansas LEARNS Act, passed the state Senate by a vote of 26-8 Tuesday. The bill includes a plan for the state to adopt a universal school choice program by the 2025-2026 school year. Students who have disabilities, are facing homelessness, attended a failing school in the previous school year, or have parents who are active duty military are eligible to receive vouchers for the 2023-2024 school year. The vouchers will be known as "Educational Freedom Accounts." In addition to promoting school choice, the bill includes a provision for the Department of Education to ensure communications and materials do not "indoctrinate" students with "ideologies," with the legislation specifically mentioning critical race theory.

Jewish Groups Defend Christian Postal Worker at Center of Supreme Court Sabbath Case

Jewish groups have come to the defense of an Evangelical Christian postal worker who claims he was forced out of his job for refusing to work Sundays, the Christian day of the sabbath. A joint amicus brief filed last Tuesday by the American Jewish Committee and religious scholars Asma Uddin and Steven Collis asked the U.S. Supreme Court to rule in favor of Gerald Groff, who began working for the U.S. Postal Service in 2012 and accused his former employer of refusing to provide reasonable accommodations for his religious practices. Groff claimed that he was forced to resign from his job in 2019 because USPS would not "honor [his] personal religious beliefs." After the U.S. 3rd Circuit Court of Appeals ruled against Groff last year, the Supreme Court will hear the postal worker's case, Groff v. DeJoy, on April 18.

Vikings Player K.J. Osborn Shares How He Helped Save a Man's Life by Pulling Him from a Burning Car

An NFL player says he helped save a man's life when he, along with three others, pulled the driver from a burning car in Austin, Texas, following a crash. K.J. Osborn, who is a wide receiver for the Minnesota Vikings, tweeted about the harrowing incident, which happened early March 5. "Right place, right time," he posted, alongside photos from the scene. "Last night myself and these 3 absolute heroes helped save a man's life by rescuing him from a vehicle up in flames after a bad crash," Osborn wrote in a note on the post. "A situation I'd never imagine being a part of in a million years."

She Texted a Wrong Number in 2009. Now They're Married with 6 Kids

In 2009, Brenda Rivera was trying to text a new friend, when she accidentally typed in a number belonging to a man named Isaiah Stearns. It was the beginning of a very unlikely meet-cute. "I sent an uplifting Bible verse," Brenda, 36, tells TODAY.com. "A few minutes later, I get a reply that says, 'Amen to that. Who is this?'" Brenda explained that they had been introduced through her sister. "He's like, 'I don't think we've ever met, my name is Isaiah Stearns,'" she recalled. Brenda apologized to the stranger for bothering him. But Isaiah wanted to keep the conversation going and asked if he could call her sometime. Brenda says she "quickly fell in love" with Isaiah, despite them being physically apart. They would talk on the phone for hours. Brenda Rivera Stearns and Isaiah Stearns, 41, will celebrate their 13-year wedding anniversary in June.

Indiana Woman Marks 10 Years in Remission by Climbing Mount Kilimanjaro

Ten years after being diagnosed with Stage 4 melanoma and being told by doctors she likely wouldn't survive, Tobi Sample found herself at the top of Mount Kilimanjaro. The Jeffersonville, Indiana, mom of two was 40 when she received her initial melanoma diagnosis. With no treatment options available and the cancer metastasizing, she enrolled in a clinical trial for the drug Keytruda. Later in remission, having received medical clearance, Sample started running half-marathons and traveled to Rwanda, where she sponsors a girl named Marie Roise. It was during that trip she thought about climbing Mount Kilimanjaro ... only to make the dream come true this February. "I have a body that can move, and I didn't expect that I was going to be able to, so the chance that I can run half-marathons and hike a mountain that I shouldn't be able to hike, it proves something to me of what I'm capable of, post-cancer," Sample said. The 42-mile trek was a tough one, but well worth it — Sample showed what she was made of, and raised money for Africa New Life. https://www.wdrb.com/news/jeffersonville-woman-with-stage-4-cancer-climbs-mt-kilimanjaro-to-raise-funds-for-africa-new/article_2b9f000c-b16f-11ed-82e5-1bde2e34007a.html

Backpacking Cat Hikes, Bikes, and Rafts with His Dad

For Simon the cat, every day is an adventure. JJ Yosh told Good Morning America that on the first day he got Simon, the two went on a hike, with the cat perched on his shoulder. This became their daily ritual, with Simon "along for the ride," Yosh said. "That's how he became known as Backpacking Kitty." Followers on social media get to see Simon and Yosh as they go biking, rafting, and exploring in the great outdoors. "I don't even know what it would be like without him," Yosh said. "We eat every meal together, we go on every adventure together, it's how we know each other." Simon can often be found climbing rocks, frolicking through fields, and even swimming with a tiny life vest. "Cats are the most amazing creatures," Yosh told GMA, and Simon helps him "just enjoy the moment and really appreciate the now."

Tiger Cub Gets Rescue Dog Playmate at Colorado Sanctuary

A tiger cub seized in New Mexico in January is settling in at a Colorado sanctuary and has a new best friend -- a rescue dog. The Wild Animal Sanctuary in Keenesburg said Duke, a tiger cub seized by Albuquerque police in January, was recently transferred to the sanctuary from the Albuquerque BioPark. Pat Craig, the sanctuary's founder and director, said Duke has formed a bond with Valley, one of the sanctuary's 10 rescue dogs that serve as companions for rescued cubs. Craig said Duke gets three play sessions a day with Valley and the other dogs. Craig said Duke will be introduced to adult tigers once he is 9 months to a year old. He said keepers hope the cub will then be able to bond with a foster mother.

Texas Teacher, Art Students Create 58-Foot Paper Snowflake

A Texas art teacher and 14 of his students broke a Guinness World Record when they created a massive paper snowflake measuring 58 feet in diameter. Will West and his students at Dunbar High School in Fort Worth worked together to fold and cut a giant sheet of paper into a snowflake measuring 58 inches across. The school said the snowflake has been submitted to Guinness World Records for official recognition. The current record-holder, made by Northern Illinois University Photography students in March 2022, measured 44 feet and 6 inches in diameter.

Elk Rescued After It 'Ignored Warnings' and Fell through Ice

Firefighters in Colorado came to the rescue of an elk that "ignored warnings" and fell through the ice covering a frozen pond. Evergreen Fire/Rescue said in a Facebook post that crews responded Monday when an elk was reported struggling in the frigid waters of a local pond. "Another elk ignored warnings, and fell through the ice on a pond," the post said. "Firefighters rescued the elk after neighbors called 911." The elk was not injured and was able to rejoin its herd, the department said.

Man Purchases Apartment Complex after Agreeing to Unusual Condition

The owner of a property management company in New York has become the unlikely guardian of a 93-year-old woman. Brock Cvijanovich recently made a deal to buy his first apartment building in upstate New York. The deal, however, came with an unusual condition. Cvijanovich confessed to Fox News in an interview that he was actually outbid by someone else willing to pay $100,000 more for the property. However, the owner told Cvijanovich that he would take $50,000 off the list price if Cvijanovich agreed to the specific term: he had to take care of a 93-year-old resident named Alice Schuman. For over 60 years Alice had been living there, and the previous owner never had the heart to raise her rent, Cvijanovich said. So neither did he. Cvijanovich charged Alice only $200 for rent and he helped her with all of her errands. A few months later, Alice had to be taken to the hospital for a medical emergency and the staff deemed Alice unfit to take care of herself. Since she didn't have any living relatives or friends, she was going to be put in the state's care. Fearing she would not receive the best care, Cvijanovich got a lawyer and became her legal guardian.

Company to Make History With World's First 3D-Printed Rocket Launch

A private space tech firm will become the first entity to launch a 3D-printed rocket, which is technically the largest 3D-printed object as well. Totally reusable, the Terran 1 will launch today from the spaceport at Cape Canaveral at 1:00 PM US Eastern Time, and will be streamed live on this YouTube channel. Built by Relativity Space, the company has huge ambitions for lowering the cost and emissions of spacefaring. This real-world test of Terran 1 features a rocket made with only 85% printed material, but future rockets will reach 95% and will include additive-manufactured boosters as well. Currently the rocket stands 110 feet tall and can carry 2,756 pounds (1,250 kilograms) into space, while the Terran R, a future project, will be much larger.

Man Builds Cozy Treehouse to Post on AirBnB and Earns Enough to Quit His Job

Keen to quit his day job, a West Virginian has built a quaint, beautifully furnished treehouse for Airbnb. It will pair with his other, rather unorthodox listing, a cabin made out of a converted school bus. A treehouse is without question one of the most fairy tale places to sleep, as an adult or certainly as a child. Will Sutherland always wanted to build one on his four-acre property in between two beautiful trees he found growing near the ledge of a large boulder subsumed by the landscape. It took him six months, but with the promise of a hospitality-fueled mini-retirement, he managed it all by himself. When at first he pitched the idea of a treehouse Airbnb, his wife Sabrina said that as long as Will built a second bathroom, she was all in on the idea.

Lost Cockatiel Found Perched on Ferris Wheel 100 Feet in the Air

Employees inspecting a giant Ferris wheel in South Carolina ended up rescuing a lost cockatiel found perched on the ride about 100 feet above the ground. SkyWheel Myrtle Beach said in a Facebook post that workers were completing their daily wheel check climb to inspect the ride when they spotted a cockatiel hopping around on the ride about 100 feet in the air. A worker held out his arm, and the cockatiel came to him and allowed itself to be carried back down the ladder to the ground. The cockatiel was identified as Joel, a bird missing for over a week. Joel was reunited with his owner, SkyWheel officials said.

Snowmobiler's Close Call with Charging Moose Caught on Video

A man snowmobiling with family members in Idaho jumped off his vehicle just in time to avoid being trampled by a charging moose -- and the moment was caught on camera. Jeremiah Bigelow posted a video to Facebook showing the scene that unfolded when he went snowmobiling near the town of Palisades with his son, his brother and two friends. Bigelow said his brother had pulled out ahead of the group when the moose suddenly ran out between them. Bigelow said his brother thought he could outrun the moose on his snowmobile, but the engine died. The video shows Bigelow's brother jump from the vehicle just as the moose collides with it. Bigelow said the moose was not injured and walked off into the woods after tripping over the snowmobile.

California Cat Rescued after 7-Mile Ride in Engine Compartment

Firefighters in California came to the rescue of a cat that took a 7-mile ride in the engine compartment of a vehicle. The Modesto Fire Department said a call came in from a cat owner who reported hearing meowing coming from the engine of their vehicle after driving 7 miles from their home to the rodeo fairgrounds on the east edge of Modesto. Deputy Chief Darin Jesberg said crews arrived and discovered the caller's cat had crawled into the engine compartment and the feline's foot was caught in the transmission line. Firefighters were able to free the cat and reunite it with its owner. Jesburg said the cat suffered a minor foot injury and some singed hair, but is expected to make a full recovery.

Idaho Men Trade Jerseys in 4.44 Seconds to Earn World Record

A pair of Idaho men traded tops in under 5 seconds to break the Guinness World Record for the fastest time to swap a sports jersey. David Rush, who has broken more than 250 Guinness World Records to promote STEM education, and frequent collaborator Jonathan "Hollywood" Hannon teamed up to attempt the record, which was previously set at 5.79 seconds by Britons Rachel Taylor and Elen Evans in 2019. Rush shared a video showing he and Hannon making multiple attempts at the record, and often getting stuck in their shirts. The men were finally able to take the record with a time of 4.44 seconds.

Message in a Bottle Floats from Nova Scotia to Bahamas Beach

A North Carolina man vacationing in the Bahamas found a message in a bottle that turned out to have been launched nearly 7 years earlier off the coast of Nova Scotia. Byron Miller said he was walking on a beach in Manjack Cay when he spotted a wine bottle containing a note protected by a sandwich bag. Miller said the note featured geographic coordinates and six names, but only four of the names will be fully legible. The vacationer used Facebook to connect with Pierce Atwood, one of the six fishermen from the boat that launched the bottle off the coast of Nova Scotia while cod fishing in July 2016. Atwood said he was surprised to learn of the bottle's long journey and its safe arrival in the Bahamas. A swimmer visiting Murrays Beach in Jervis Bay, New South Wales, Australia, found a message in a bottle in late February.

Arizona Resident Finds Bobcat Lounging on Dog Bed

Wildlife officials in Arizona said a resident arrived home to discover a bobcat had entered their home and was lounging on a dog bed. The Arizona Game and Fish Department said in a Twitter post that the San Manuel homeowner returned home from work Monday to discover the bobcat relaxing on their dog's bed. The homeowner contacted authorities, but "the bobcat escaped before an officer arrived," the post said. The department reminded residents not to attempt to handle entrapped or injured wildlife without assistance from authorities.

Owl Stows Away for Two-Week Trip on Royal Caribbean Cruise Ship

Wildlife officials in Florida said an owl was successfully captured after stowing away aboard a cruise ship and joining passengers for their two-week holiday to Mexico. The Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission said wildlife biologist Ricardo Zambrano responded to Royal Caribbean International's Symphony of the Seas cruise ship in Miami after the ship's crew reported a burrowing owl had been spotted on numerous occasions during the vessel's two-week trip to Mexico and back. Initial attempts to capture the owl caused the bird to flee to new perches, but the crew was eventually able to distract the avian for long enough to allow Zambrano to capture it in a net. "After the amazing rescue, the cute little stowaway was safely assisted with the disembarkation process. He had nothing to claim in customs," the post said.

Houston Podcast Taping Interrupted by SUV Crash

A pair of men recording a podcast at a Houston cafe captured video of the moment an SUV smashed into the windows right behind their seats. Podcast host Nathan Reeves and his guest, friend and photographer Alexsey Reyes, were recording the fifth episode of Reeves' podcast inside the Tout Suite off Commerce Street during the weekend, when their video camera captured the moment the vehicle struck the windows behind them. The moment occurred just seconds after Reeves remarked on how quiet it was inside the cafe. Reeves and Reyes were not injured in the crash. They said the family inside the SUV were also uninjured.

Cemetery Posts Personal Ad for Lonely Goose Whose Mate Died—and they Find a Match

A cemetery manager played Valentine's Day matchmaker to a lonely widowed goose whose mate passed away. Blossom and Bud lived together for years in the pond at Riverside Cemetery in Marshalltown Iowa, but after Bud died last August, it seemed Blossom would spend the best years of her life alone. General manager Dorie Tammen noticed that Blossom would spend hours staring at herself in the shiny reflections of model tombstones by the cemetery office, and she realized her goose needed company. Tammen posted an FSM ad on Facebook for a "lovely widowed goose" that was "youthful, adventurous, and lively," looking for "a life partner for companionship and occasional shenanigans." The ad, mostly a joke, worked like a charm, and Tammen received a surprising email from Deb and Randy Hoyt who had a widower goose named Frankie who was in the same sort of heartbroken rut. The three humans set up a Valentine's Day date for the two geese, and soon enough they were swimming around the pond at Riverside, seemingly content to be together forever.

Alligator Believed to Have Been Stolen from a Zoo More than 20 Years Ago Returns to Same Zoo

An alligator believed to have been stolen from a Texas zoo more than 20 years ago has been returned to the zoo it was allegedly taken from. Officials from Texas Parks and Wildlife contacted Animal World Snake Farm and Zoo, saying they found an alligator that had been in a former zoo volunteer's care for more than 20 years, a representative for the zoo said in a video on Facebook. It is alleged that the volunteer stole either an egg or young alligator hatchling decades ago, put it in her pocket and kept it as a pet. Employees from the zoo, which is in New Braunfels near San Antonio, traveled about 50 miles to the woman's house to retrieve the alligator.

"Blizzo" the Snowplow Hits Twin Cities Roads

A new snowplow has hit the Minnesota highways - named after Grammy Award-winning artist Lizzo. "Blizzo" was one of the names that won the state's snowplow naming competition. Blizzo will join the fleet and clear the roads in the Twin Cities. After she learned that a snowplow had been named after her, Lizzo thanked Minnesotans. "Of all the awards I have received, this is by far the highest honor," she said. "To know that there is a snowplow with the name 'Blizzo' that is clearing the streets of the Twin Cities right now makes my heart melt - or freeze."
